

Report calls local air pollution serious

GRANITE CITY — The Quad City area is situated between some of the biggest sources of airborne, potentially cancer-causing chemicals in Illinois, according to two newly released reports.

One report listed Granite City Steel as the third worst air polluter in Illinois. The same report listed the company third among airborne emissions of known or suspected cancer-causing chemicals into the atmosphere.

Monsanto's W.G. Krummrich plant in Sauget was fourth in total airborne pollutant emissions and the worst in release of suspected carcinogens. Shell Oil in Roxana was eighth in total releases and ninth on the cancer list. Cerro Copper Products in Sauget was 20th in total releases.

The report, issued jointly by Citizens for a Better Environment (CBE) and the Chicago Lung Association, is based on toxic release estimates available to the public for the first time through the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act.

The air of Madison County had 7.8 million pounds of toxic chemicals pumped into it, making it the second worst area in the state, behind the Chicago area. St. Clair County had 5.2 million pounds.

A second report, released recently by the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency, said about 440 million pounds of toxic chemicals are emitted annually in the state: 82.6 million pounds to the air, 128.5 million pounds to toxic chemicals to landfills, and 217.5 million pounds to waterways and publicly owned treatment plants. (Revisions to the toxic provisions of Illinois' water quality standards are currently before the state Pollution Control Board.)

About 18 million pounds of 21 suspected carcinogens were released in the state, with about 11.5 million pounds of that being released to the air.

IEPA Director Bernard Kilian said the report

"presents a compelling case for across-the-board and ongoing reductions in the release of toxic chemicals."

"Much attention has been paid to leaking hazardous waste sites, but the air is the media through which most people come into the greatest contact with toxic chemicals," said Kevin Greene, research director of the CBE, a not-for-profit organization based in Chicago.

The report said Granite City Steel released 620,000 pounds of benzene, a solvent known to cause leukemia in certain instances. Shell Oil released 280,000 pounds of benzene and Amoco Petroleum Additives Co. of Wood River released 42,300 pounds.

Monsanto's Sauget plant topped the cancer list with the release of 804,000 pounds of known or suspected carcinogens.

Other known human carcinogens released into the Metro East environment include 363,000 pounds of chromium and related compounds, 4,700 pounds of arsenic and 17,500 pounds of formaldehyde.

Most of the companies on the list, including all of them in Madison and St. Clair counties, also release other chemicals whose carcinogenic qualities are suspected but not proven.

Granite City Steel routinely releases 17 different toxic chemical emissions, the CBE-CLA report said.

The report contends that some of the emissions may cause serious short-term or long-term health effects other than cancer, depending on the degree and frequency of exposure. These effects can include asthma, neurological disorders, birth defects and damage to the liver and kidneys, the CBE-CLA said.

The data for both studies was reported by the polluting companies themselves, as required by the Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act of 1986. The reports marked the first time such information had been compiled in Illinois.

Toxic breathing may be routine

GRANITE CITY — Metro East area residents may routinely be breathing unhealthy chemicals as a result of emissions by industries.

About 620,000 pounds of benzene were released into the atmosphere by Granite City Steel in 1987. Another 360,000 pounds were released by the Shell and Amoco refineries in Wood River/Roxana, 54,500 pounds by Monsanto's Krummrich plant in Sauget, and 11,000 pounds by Reilly Tar and Chemical Co. in Granite City.

Benzene is heavier than air, said Tom O'Connor, director of environmental and occupational health for the Chicago Lung Association, which recently co-authored a report on industrial air pollution in Illinois.

The fact that benzene is heavier than air means benzene released into the air will tend to stay near its source, depending on wind currents and the surrounding terrain, he said.

O'Connor said chemicals with "vapor densities greater than 1" would tend to settle near their source in a floodplain area such as the one in Madison and St. Clair counties.

Granite City Steel also released 1.8 million pounds of naphthalene in 1987 and 170,000 pounds of toluene. Shell Oil in Roxana released 380,000 pounds of toluene. Both these chemicals also are heavier than air, O'Connor said.

The CLA says that benzene has been linked to leukemia in some cases; that naphthalene can cause headaches, fatigue and nausea with repeated exposure and might be a cause of birth defects; and that repeated exposure to toluene can lead to liver and kidney damage, birth defects, headaches and nausea.

The reports that have been released do not allege any wrongdoing by any of the businesses named, and the companies deny any wrongdoing.

Companies respond
Ben Johannpeter, spokesman for Granite City Steel, said the company "adheres to all state and federal (environmental) regulations. We try to exceed them (in air purity) in most cases."

Johannpeter said the company currently is completing a $7 million installation of an electrostatic precipitator at the Blast Furnace Division. Precipitators "scrub" air to remove chemicals and airborne particles.

Max McCombs, general superintendent of environmental affairs for Monsanto's Krummrich plant, said the report did not address the exposure component and instead concentrated on total emissions.

"Our exposures to the community were well within safe limits," McCombs said. He said some of the report's findings could be misleading because most of the chemicals released from the Sauget plant were suspected rather than known carcinogens.

"There is considerable debate among the scientific community about which chemicals are actual and which are suspected carcinogens. You have to be careful when looking at this report," he said. Greene said his organization was not alleging wrongful actions. He said the study makes specific positive recommendations about how to reduce air emissions.

Police revamp creates debate

PONTIAC BEACH — Trustees have changed their minds and agreed to pay bills incurred during a recent unauthorized remodeling of the village police headquarters.

The renovation project, undertaken without specific approval of the Village Board, had earlier drawn criticism from trustees who declined to pay partial expenses of the project.

Trustees changed their mind at last Tuesday night's meeting and approved payment of $428 for building supplies, Plexiglas and hardware. Off-duty police officers did the work.

"I've talked with the building inspector and he has inspected the work. He said it's not major construction of any wall or major modifications and it is in compliance with the building," Board Attorney Keith Jensen reported Tuesday.

An architect's plan is required if major construction is planned, Jensen said.

Cold weather and tighter security measures were given as reasons for remodeling the police department area of the Village Hall.

"The only mistake made was on my part," said Trustee Bob Abel, chairman of the Village Police Committee.

"So I should apologize to the police officers who did a wonderful job and start blaming you," replied Trustee Louis Whitsell.

The remodeling was done at the dispatching area, which faces a drafty front door and was virtually open to the public, other than for a half-wall about waist high. The area was closed

MADISON — In 1989 Madison will become a more "convenient" place to shop and dine — at least for certain items — if a planned convenience store joins two other planned fast food/convenience stores on which construction is expected to begin soon.

The City Council recently accepted a petition for annexation of a corner lot in Nantux Township. The two-thirds of an acre lot, located at the southeast corner of Skenen Street and McCambridge Avenue, is owned by David E. McClelland, who filed the petition.

McClelland has completed an agreement to sell the property to the QuikTrip Corp. of Tulsa, Okla., pending annexation of the property into Madison and its rezoning for commercial use. The company plans to put in a convenience store and gasoline station there. Ray Korte, a QuikTrip real estate representative, told the council the project would cost about $1.1 million and would employ eight to 10 people.

The council referred the matter to the Zoning Board for its recommendation. The Zoning Board is expected to act on it soon, said Mayor John Bellico. Bellico said construction is expected to begin soon on a new Huck's store and Dobbies drive-through hamburger restaurant.

The Huck's is to go up on the east side of the 1200 block of Madison Avenue across from Schermer's Garden Shop, and the Dobbies is to be built on the west side of the 400 block of Madison Avenue.

Korte said Bellico had been "very helpful in ironing out the deal."

Bellico said the QuikTrip arrangements had taken about two months to negotiate.

GRANITE CITY — U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello was asked a variety of questions by Niedringhaus School fifth- and sixth-graders, ranging from what kind of car he drove, to his stand on the John Tower nomination.

Costello spent about 40 minutes at the school Friday morning.

He chuckled about the car question and was even able to crack a joke about the 1984 Buick Riviera he claimed to own. "Actually I don't have a car — that one is my wife's," Costello said. "Sometimes she lets me drive it."

As for Tower, Costello said he would have to vote against him and predicted that Tower would not be approved as defense secretary this week.

Costello gave a brief overview of his job as one of the 535 members of Congress but the children seemed to follow the presentation best when he talked about money.

When asked how much money he made, Costello said he made a lot — $89,500. "You have to understand that takes some out of that and at least $10,000 in expenses," Costello said. He explained that many of his expenses were created by the four days a week he spends in Washington, D.C.

The students were audibly amazed by the cost of living in the nation's capital.

Costello compared the mortgage on his four-bedroom home in Belleville, about $300 a month, to the rent for a no-frills one-bedroom apartment in Washington, about $600 to $1,300 a month.

But according to Costello, money doesn't solve everything, especially in East St. Louis. A student asked why the city had approved the construction of a $5 million sports stadium while submerged in financial difficulty.

He explained that citizens had voted to raise taxes to pay for the facility and the money couldn't be used for anything else, Costello said. Federal money had been given to the city to alleviate some of its other difficulties but was "mismanaged."

"People always think that if you just send money, that will fix everything," Costello said. "That only works if you have someone who knows how to manage it."

Costello took the same stand about future government.

"These young people are the future," Costello said. "Someday they may be called upon to assume governmental positions."

"If we expect them to accept that call, it's up to us to educate them and interact with them and make sure they know what's going on now and in the future."

The questions that were asked today expressed that the teachers are doing a good job in giving the children information on current affairs.

Robber's sentence 18 years

EDWARDSVILLE — A Granite City man charged with two armed robberies last March has been sentenced to 18 years in a state prison by Madison County Circuit Judge Edward C. Ferguson.

In one robbery the victim was cut with a knife on the neck and in the second robbery the victim was beaten. James C. Parrott Jr., 25, of the 2400 block of West 23rd Street pleaded guilty Feb. 16 to three counts of armed robbery for robbing three men in two separate incidents.

Two men were attacked on March 28, 1988, outside the Masonic Temple on Cleveland Boulevard at 30th Street. Two assailants forced the men to the ground and took their wallets and about $150.

One of the victims was cut on the neck when he grabbed for a knife being held by one of the robbers. The victim recovered.

On the following night, March 29, two men armed with a knife forced their way into a room at the Illini Motel in the 1100 block of Niedringhaus Avenue. They covered the occupant with a bed sheet and beat him.

The motel guest, a railroad worker from out-of-town who was staying overnight, was robbed of his wallet and other items.

The second man suspected in the robberies is already serving time in a state penitentiary, police said.

Parrott had been released from prison in February 1988 after serving a prison term for armed robbery. He had been sentenced in October 1984 to serve eight years in state prison after holding a knife to a man's throat and robbing him in May 1984.

The victim was walking in the street near Kirkpatrick Homes at the time of the robbery and Parrott was arrested 80 minutes later.

Parrott was sentenced to four years in prison in August 1982 for a felony theft of property occurring in December 1981, and in April 1981 at age 17 he was convicted and sentenced on a burglary charge.

'Generous' vandals free hamsters

GRANITE CITY — Hamster cages were smashed and the hamsters were released when burglars vandalized the Educational Therapy Center at Lake School, 3201 East 23rd St. It was reported March 1.

An officer on patrol noticed an open window at the rear of the school at 11:55 p.m. and contacted the school's director.

The building was searched, but no one was inside.

In the northwest wing of the building, the hamsters were released in one classroom and desks and room dividers were overturned.

Glass objects and candy were thrown about the floor and words were written in red lipstick on a wall.

A file cabinet was entered and some cash was taken.

A window was broken in the main hallway, allowing entry to a classroom in the northeast wing of the building.

Missing from this area were an AM-FM radio-type recorder valued at $150 and a Civil War sabre sword in a wooden sheath worth a total of $150.

Entry into the school apparently was gained by prying boards from double doors on the north side of the building, police said.

Two arrested following evening raid

PONTON BEACH — Two brothers were arrested at an apartment in the 4000 block of Kathy Drive after a search warrant issued by Judge Charles V. Roman Jr. was executed about 6:30 p.m. Feb. 21.

Several Ponton Beach police officers headed by Lt. Michael Crouch entered the residence, accompanied by Sgt. Dan McKinney and his K-9 dog, Diablo.

"We found a few drugs," Crouch said.

Ronald L. Carney, 20, who resided at the address, was booked for unlawful possession of cannabis, a felony charge by amount, Crouch said.

was at the apartment. He was booked on felony charges of unlawful delivery of cannabis and unlawful possession of cannabis, police said.

Several bags of a green leafy substance and loose substance, all alleged to be cannabis and weighing over 30 grams, were allegedly found in the apartment along with some drug paraphernalia and about $200 cash.

Diablo, a narcotics-trained German shepherd dog, assisted officers by finding items hidden in a sock, under clothing and in a closet, Crouch said.

Bond for Tony Carney was set at $20,000. Ronald Carney's bond was set at $15,000. Both men were transferred the same night to the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville.

Robert C. Bell, 18, of the 1900 block of Joy Avenue, also an employee of the firm, got into a 1979 Oldsmobile owned by a Madison man and drove the car into the middle bay for service, directed by Ellsworth.

Bell told police that when he applied the brakes, the brake pedal went to the floor and the vehicle continued forward, hitting Ellsworth. A garage door which was closed also was damaged by the car.

Ellsworth was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center. The owner of the car told police he was not aware of brake problems.

Youths warned of drinking at area nightspot

By Ed Gurney

COLLINSVILLE — Police are cracking down on youths drinking alcohol on the way to teen nights on Fridays at Panama Jax.

Thirteen people were arrested in early February for alcohol-related violations and four were arrested the previous week.

Assistant police chief John Swindle called the drinking a "king-size" problem, judging by the cans and bottles visible on the lot after closing.

The nightclub does not serve alcohol on teen nights and is not being criticized by police.

"We just want them (teen-age patrons) to spread the word," Swindle said. "They're welcome in Collinsville, but don't bring alcohol."

"I love seeing those guys (police) coming down here," Panama Jax owner Ed Trober said. "They're just trying to stop the problem."

The crackdown comes in the wake of two serious accidents on consecutive Friday nights last month on Illinois 137 and East port Plaza Drive in which a total of 13 people were taken to the hospital. All but one of the victims were under 21 and in the second accident a juvenile was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol.

Swindle said it has not been proved that people involved in either accident were going to or from Panama Jax and he claimed the accidents are not what prompted the crackdown.

He said he had been seeing the litter on the lot for some time and knew it meant that a number of teens had been drinking. "I've been feeling guilty

"about it for some time," Swindle said.

Crowds are averaging 1,000 or more on teen nights, Trober said. Youths between 14 and 20 pay a $7 admission, which includes soda. Hours are 7 p.m. to 1 a.m.

Swindle and Trober agreed youths are coming from all over the St. Louis area for teen night.

"We will continue the effort until we can see a sign the problem is being eliminated," Swindle said.

"If we have 1,000 people in the club, you're talking probably 20 to 30 kids," Trober said.

If it is clear that a youth trying to enter the club has been drinking, he or she will not be admitted, he said.

Some youths try to hide alcohol cans and bottles in their coats as they enter, and the metal detectors can sometimes catch it, Trober said. If it appears someone is carrying too much weight, security officers conduct patdown searches and confiscate alcohol, he said.

Vandalism inside can probably be blamed on youths who have been drinking, Trober said.

"It's definitely a problem. I wish it would go away, but it won't as long as alcohol is available (to minors) at convenience stores and other stores," Trober said.

He noted that the nightclub never sells package liquor, even when adults are admitted.

He said he is planning to buy a Jeep so security officers can resume patrol of the parking lot. Trober said youths are occasionally reminded that they can be arrested if they are caught drinking or vandalizing and that teen night could be abolished.

Exhibit on religious history

The religious heritage of Madison County is being shown through displays of religious artifacts and garments, family Bibles, pictures, books and manuscripts at the Madison County Historical Museum from March 5 through April 16.

Among items loaned by area residents for the exhibit: an 1888 Eastern Orthodox Icon smuggled from Bulgaria in 1959; sequi-centennial items from Alton's College Avenue Presbyterian Church, of which Elijah P. Lovejoy was the first minister in 1837; 1894 Crucifix and Holy Family shadow boxes which belonged to Michael and Mary Jatcko of Williamsville, Ill.; and the 1885 Baptismal Font and Communion Flagon used in Edwardsville's oldest church, the First Presbyterian Church, organized in 1819.

From the Museum's holdings of church-related items the following will be displayed:

The 1844 Wourker family christening dress; the 1816 family Bible of Curtiss Blakeman; and the models of Edwardsville's Eden Church and Parsonage built by Henry and Harold Wentz from 1928 to 1930.

Insurance rate-cut legislation surfaces

Illinois lawmakers continued to introduce new legislation during February and will begin consideration of newly-filed bills in House committees in early March.

State Rep. Ron Stephens, R-Troy, said lawmakers will begin committee work shortly after the governor's annual budget address, presented on March 1. Some of the bills introduced include:

Rollback Insurance Rates (HB 337) — Requires insurers to roll back rates to 15 percent less than charges which were in effect Jan. 1, 1989, for the same coverage. Applies to policies issued or renewed on and after Jan. 1, 1990.

Motorist Insurance Coverage (HB 390) — Requires that uninsured and underinsured motor vehicle coverage, in excess of the limits established in the Illinois Vehicle Code, be provided in a motor vehicle insurance policy unless the insured declines such coverage by written notice to the insurance company.

Earns Surrogate Parenthood (HB 335) — Provides that no person shall enter into a surrogate parenthood arrangement.

Sick Child Care Program (HB 304) — Includes hospital-based sick child care programs in the definition of "day care center." Requires the Department of Children and Family Services to license and regulate any person, group of persons or corporation which provides in-home, sick child care services or child transportation services.

Product Liability Cases (HB 334) — Repeals a provision which requires the court to instruct the jury — in negligence and product liability cases — that the defendant shall be found not liable if the jury believes the plaintiff's contributory fault is more than 50 percent of the proximate cause of the injury or damage for which recovery is sought.

It eliminates language which provides that all defendants found liable in negligence and product liability cases are jointly and severally liable for plaintiff's past and future medical and medically-related expenses.

Tax Checkoffs (HB 309) — Removes provisions that check-off contributions only be made from an income tax refund due to the taxpayer. Allows contributions of $1 or more to the Non-Game Wildlife Conservation Fund, the Alzheimer's Disease Research Fund, the Child Abuse Prevention Fund and the Heritage Preservation Fund be made by either reducing the income tax refund or increasing the income tax due.

Intoxication (HB 319) — Gives a cause of action to a person who receives injury to his person, property or means of support by an intoxicated person under 21 — against a person 21 or older who provides the alcoholic liquor causing the intoxication and who knew or should have known the recipient was under 21.

How often have you felt a personal tragedy in your life, whether it be a loss of income, sickness or disability?

If you have never experienced any of these traumas, you have been very fortunate. However, there are many families who know exactly what it is like to go without adequate food, clothing and shelter. With the high cost of living expenses today, such as housing, food, utilities, and medical costs, our senior citizens and low income families are seriously affected. If elected Venice Township Supervisor, I will help combat these problems that have touched upon so many lives.

- I will help fight against higher utility rates and taxes.
- I will work to re-establish the eye glass program.
- I will strive to assist those in REAL NEED of financial help.
- I will hold public meetings in order to hear the needs and concerns of the people.

16 join United Way board

The Tri-Cities Area United Way has elected 16 new members to the board of directors. The new members will join existing members in their duties to oversee the organization's management, operation, planning and development.

United Way is an organization made up primarily of volunteers who work to support a broad range of programs and services in their community.

A spokesman said, "The United Way does more than raise money. It researches and plans for future community needs. It allocates money through a systematic review process conducted by volunteers."

"The Tri-Cities Area United Way also provides information and referral services to put people in touch with the services they need."

"The United Way movement is a flexible system that has responded and adapted to changing social conditions and human needs. It has a commitment to assessing community needs and directing funds where they are needed the most, always balancing the cost with community benefit."

"The United Way evolved in the 1920s, '30s and '40s. During those decades business and labor leaders joined together to conduct a single, efficient, workplace fund-raising drive, thus reducing the number of charitable appeals and answering the employees' and employers' desire for a single campaign."

"Advances in computer technology after World War II enabled employers to offer their employees the convenience of having contributions deducted from their paychecks. Many businesses continue voluntarily to provide employees with this privilege, allowing them to support human services in their communities through United Way."

New members elected to serve as board members from 1989 through 1991 are:

Liz Briggs, Jim Cant, Ron Daine, Dave Hoff, Ben Johannpeter, David Kins, Sue Lorschbach, Bob Maxwell, Larry Merla, Art Miller, Darryl Slater, Carol Squires, Lavencia Tate and Elmer Wortham.

Rosemarie Brown and the Rev. Ralph Totten have also been elected to serve one-year terms and will chair standing committees.

Retiring board members are: Mike Bevington, Jim Boyle, Mary Jessee, Dave Knollman, Bruno Kulesza, Ron Payton, Mattie Pope, Linda Schermer, Bill Smith and Bill Swanson.

Ex-East St. Louisan to don judge's robe

By Rick Arnold
Staff affiliate

BELEVILLE — In a few days, John Goodwin will have a whole new perspective on the legal system.

Goodwin, a Belleville lawyer, will exchange his attorney's file folders for a judge's gavel on March 6. Goodwin was appointed by Chief Circuit Judge Stephen Korman on Tuesday to fill a vacant associate judge position in the 20th Judicial Circuit.

Korman said Wednesday that Goodwin "is an excellent attorney who will be an asset to the bench."

Goodwin, 40, replaces Associate Judge Robert Saunders, of East St. Louis, who retired Dec. 23.

A 1973 graduate of St. Louis University Law School, Goodwin served as an assistant St. Clair County state's attorney from 1973 to 1978, doing both felony and misdemeanor work. In 1978, Goodwin went into private practice, but continued to work part-time in the state's attorney's office.

In his years of private practice, Goodwin has been a general practitioner, handling several types of civil law, including workmen's compensation and personal injury cases.

Goodwin, an East St. Louis native, said he's wanted to be a judge ever since he graduated from law school. He feels his years as a lawyer will be a big asset to him in his new position.

"I want to go into this fair-minded, I want to give everybody a clean shake," Goodwin said. "I'll always have a kind word for practitioners because I know what it's like."

But no matter what his personal relationship may be with lawyers, Goodwin said he won't hesitate to lay down the law in his courtroom if necessary.

"A judge has to maintain decorum and rules in the courtroom," he said.

Goodwin said while not much separates lawyers from judges in terms of knowledge or experience, there is one basic difference between the two positions.

"A lawyer's first duty is to seek justice and represent his client as zealously as possible," Goodwin said. "A judge's first duty is to seek justice and not zealously represent anyone."

Another difference Goodwin will notice will be in his wallet. Though he wouldn't disclose his current earnings, Goodwin said he will be taking a pay cut when he starts earning his $75,000 annual salary as an associate judge. Circuit judges earn $80,000 annually.

Goodwin said he's not awed by the newfound power he will have.

"I'm sure my opinion's going to change as I get on the bench and mature, but somebody's got to make the decisions and that is a judge's role," Goodwin said.

Pollution

"We don't allege any wrongdoing. There are just not enough regulations for air emissions," he said.

"We would like to get the state EPA (Environmental Protection Agency) and the Pollution Control Board to move more quickly on this," he said.

"We also urge companies to voluntarily curb toxic releases (and) to reduce the amount of toxic chemicals used in their production processes," he added.

"They'll benefit economically with lower insurance rates and less liability."

McCombs said the Saugat plant has already taken steps in this direction. The plant is completing work on a project that will reduce air emissions from the plant by 90 percent by 1990, he said. The project is being done in conjunction with Monsanto's worldwide goal to reduce air emissions by 90 percent by 1992, and out of economic necessity, McCombs said.

"We are making fundamental changes in the way we make materials, which is the right direction to go," he said. "We are moving toward not making the waste in the first place."

"When you are not producing waste, more of the material is going into the product. There are economic benefits as well as environmental benefits," he said.

According to the study, the leading air polluter in terms of pounds was the Quantum Chemical Co. of Morris. The company emitted 5.3 million pounds of new walls were painted inside and out to harmonize with other wall paneling.

Criticism of the volunteer work surfaced when bills for construction materials were included on a bill list at the Feb. 14 meeting.

Whitwell was the first to question the bills at the earlier session.

"I see all kinds of remodeling done and I didn't know anything about it. We're supposed to have an architectural plan to do that," Whitwell said.

"In the first place, it's awful cold up there for those girls (dispatchers). And, at the time it was zero weather and we didn't have time," replied Abel.

"Why didn't you call a special meeting?" Whitwell asked.

Trustee Loren Madison said, "I think it's a flat violation of the law to spend money without an appropriation."

"I think the reason it was done was for the safety of the dispatchers. They had no protection at all," said Mayor Glen Wilson.

"I agree with both reasons, but I also agree with Lou Whitwell. You can't do it without board approval," said Trustee Don Rea.

Abel said, "I think it's a good thing and I said, 'Let's do it.' It is my fault. I'll take the blame. It saved us a lot of money by them doing it."

"I think we should strike from the bill list any bill pertinent to the remodeling," Madison said.

"All we did was put a partition up," added Trustee Bob Vincent, a member of the Police Committee.

As the debate escalated the mayor said, "I did not sign for it, but I do think it took a bunch of dedicated men to do it and I'm proud of it."

"So am I," said Abel.

Pioneers 1 game away from state tournament

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

VANDALIA — The tiny town of Patoka, Ill., shut down Friday to watch its high school basketball team play. Patoka is once again back to business as usual thanks to the East St. Louis Assumption Pioneers.

The Pioneers' once again used a wonderfully balanced scoring attack to wear down the Warriors 80-60 in the Vandalia Class A Sectional title game. Assumption (23-7) advances to Tuesday's Charleston Super-Sectional at Lantz Gym on the campus of Eastern Illinois University and will play Flora (27-4), a 66-41 winner over Robinson in the Bridgeport Sectional championship on Friday. Tipoff Tuesday is 7:30 p.m.

"I think the sign going into Patoka says the population is 650," said Warrior coach Wendell Wheeler. "And we had 600 tickets sold. That's great."

The full house was 92 percent in favor of Patoka (24-5), but it was a small band of Assumption fans who had the most to cheer about as the Pioneers shot out to a 41-28 lead at halftime and never let the Warriors get back into it.

"It was hard for us to come back and play, like we did against Wesclin," said Assumption coach Ron Woods. "We've played a lot of games in the past 10 days (five). And this Patoka club was really tough. They were physical and hard-nosed. But our pressure, man-to-man defense did the job."

The Pioneers forced 22 Patoka turnovers, and it was the solid play of Assumption guards Malcolm Hill and Maurice Horton that did the most damage. Hill, a senior, scored 18 points while

| SCORING | | 13 | 15 | 17-40 |

| PATOKA | Cain 21 (13 points), Gans 21 (12 points), Payne 12, Manaster 6, FG-22/47 12 | | | |

Horton, a junior, had 12 points and ran the offense flawlessly. "Our guards did it tonight," said Woods. "They were in a 2-3 zone, but it was set up wide and there was room in the middle for Horton to do some penetrating."

The Pioneers' big front line of Ian Stanback, Monteif Dixon and Ronald Scott all scored in double figures as well as Assumption continued its quest for a state title in the final year of the school's existence.

The Warriors stayed with the Pioneers for one quarter, trailing only 19-15. But Dixon went end-to-end for a layup, Horton hit a jump shot, Hill got a layup on a feed from Horton and Horton scored on a twisting move to the basket as Assumption took a 27-16 lead early in the second quarter. Hill's three-point shot gave the Pioneers a 13-point edge at halftime and the Warriors never threatened in the second half.

The Pioneers now face a Flora team that is big but slow. "They shoot better than Assumption," said Wheeler. "If they can get the ball down the court without turning it over, they can stay with them."

"We're taking them one at a time," said Woods. "But we're still looking forward to a chance to walking on that Big Ten floor at Champaign's Assembly Hall."

They're 32 minutes away from that.

Class AA Regionals

Pace's trey at :02 gives Kahoks title

By Jim Woodcock

BELLEVILLE — Tim Pace figured out a way Friday to record a season-low 14 points and still experience the ultimate thrill in high school basketball.

Pace made a capacity crowd at the Belleville East Class AA Regional forget about his struggles through the title game's first 30 minutes by scoring the contest's final two baskets against Altothoff. The first was a game-tying bucket with 1:18 left; the second one, a game-winner. His final shot — a lunging three-pointer while being double-teamed near the arc — fell through with two seconds left and provided the Kahoks with a tension-filled 41-38 victory over the Crusaders. The win afforded the Kahoks (18-9) their third straight regional championship, but none in recent memory came quite as difficult as this one.

First, the Kahoks came from behind in the final minute Wednesday to nip Belleville East when Tim Range sank two free throws with two seconds left. Friday was a second furious comeback with another climax at 0:02.

"These were exact same games," close games, emotional games," Pace said while trying to catch his breath. "I don't like them this close."

"But it's fun." The fun turned into work Saturday, when the Kahoks wonners of 10 straight — immediately began preparing for this week's Collinsville Class AA Sectional. Their semifinal opponent on Wednesday will be Edwardsville, which captured the Highland Regional on Friday with a 77-66 win over the host Bulldogs.

The other semifinal is Tuesday, when two-time defending state champion East St. Louis Lincoln faces a reborn Altothoff team. Both semifinals and the championship game on Friday begin at 7:30 p.m.

If the Kahoks' post-season pattern of success continues, it may make coach Bob Bone an old man before his time. His team trailed for 12 minutes and 3 seconds of the two fourth quarters (16 minutes) it played last week, but each time found dramatic ways to lead when time expired.
